Chicago's Strange Fondness of a Mere Table Ornamentation—A Decision in the Apostle Case.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 3.—[Special.]—As there is considerable difference of opinion as to the meaning of the two planks in the Republican platform on the subject of prohibition, about accomplishment nothing settled, I. W. Dunshee, managing editor of the Journal, to-day had the interview in the matter of the planks in question. After reading the article in THE TRIBUNE of Friday last, which gives three possible interpretations of the meaning of the second and third planks, and saying what views in his opinion were the correct ones, Mr. Dunshee said: "The Tribune's definition from the platform is a satisfactory one. The second is interpreted to mean that the Republican party will oppose the enactment of prohibitory legislation, and will endeavor to secure the defeat of such legislation as may be enacted. The third plank would prohibit legislation on that question, but leaves the present laws and the power of the State here and there to enforce them as they are. The fourth plank is considered the same as the second, and means that the Republican party will oppose the enactment of prohibitory legislation. The fifth plank is considered the same as the third, and means that the legislation of the present is valid, and that the enforcement of present laws is a matter of duty. Whether it does not also mean that the legislation of the present is valid, and that the enforcement of present laws is a matter of duty, is a question which will be settled by the Supreme Court. The sixth plank is considered to mean that the Republican party will oppose the enactment of prohibitory legislation. The seventh plank is considered to mean that the Republican party will oppose the enactment of prohibitory legislation. The eighth plank is considered to mean that the Republican party will oppose the enactment of prohibitory legislation. The ninth plank is considered to mean that the Republican party will oppose the enactment of prohibitory legislation. A FATAL LAUNCH.

LONDON, July 3.—Intelligence has just reached here of a terrible calamity during the launching of the steamship Victoria at Glasgow yesterday. While [illegible] the vessel fell over on her side, precipitating a great number of people into the water. According to the dispatches [illegible] were drowned.

Further particulars of the calamity at Glasgow state that the Victoria, which was constructed for coast trading, is a vessel of 800 tons burden. Two hundred workmen were on board when she capsized. The accident occurred in the launch of the vessel, and [illegible] the number will reach over 200.

LATER.

A still later dispatch from Glasgow says: "The Victoria capsized, upon launching, from the ways into the river Clyde, in the course of which [illegible] owing to the interruption of communication by the current steamer.

"The Victoria left the ways at a very fast rate, and when she passed the ends she rolled from side to side. The persons on board, fearing she would capsize, ran to and fro. The vessel finally rolled over and remained in a downward position. There were also four apprentices on board. The [illegible] were all saved, but the [illegible] of the vessel [illegible] to save those who were unfortunately [illegible] the water. [illegible] Lloyd's steamer [illegible] and [illegible] to the work of rescuing the unfortunate people, and succeeded in saving quite a number. It is [illegible] that many fifty persons were in the Victoria when the vessel went over, and they were all upon deck. Crowds of persons, relatives of the victims are flocking to the scene of the casualty."

LATER STILL.

Another dispatch from Glasgow says the report of the Victoria capsizing was also [illegible] with fatal results.

Divers are [illegible] the water for the bodies of the victims.

Several of the people who were taken from the water alive were so exhausted that it was necessary to remove them to the infirmary.

The manner in which water rushed into the ship before overboard on board of her.

The Victoria had all her machinery on board when she was launched.

A later dispatch from Glasgow says many of the persons who were precipitated into the water were saved.

The Victoria turned upside down before she sank. As are witnesses over a great number of men struggling in the water and clutching for life.

Many were rescued and conveyed safely ashore, having been struck by the ships. The accident of the capsize of persons on board and the sudden immersion in very widely thrown boats were found on the side of the ships. The divers are searching for the other bodies.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

Fifty-two names are published as those of the missing persons, as rumors were circulated to that the launch, it is believed that many of them, owned relatives, are among the missing. Many dead bodies are being brought to the surface of the dock. There was a rapid rush, and it is feared many of the bodies were carried to sea. There was a large number of boys on board. The steamer Prince, who had charge of several lighters, was at her side when the accident occurred. The passengers for the steamer, and a magazine for large [illegible] steamers.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

A number of men at the ship-yard, on the north side of the river, who witnessed the disaster, but who were unable to render any assistance at the time, say the whole vessel glided from her cradle. They immediately set to work to aid the people struggling in the water. They say that many of the men on the Victoria jumped overboard and others were thrown overboard. That a quantity of them floated far from the spot and evinced great unfortunate struggling in the water. A number of carpenters were rather [illegible] shortly after the ship capsized, but many of them were afterward seen to rise. No one even [illegible] struggling together. Four men [illegible] to refuse save the number of the [illegible] and were forced to desist by the cold of the water, from the last particular. Seven steamers took the boat just before the ship was submerged.

According to the statements of witnesses and survivors of the disaster, the vessel left the ship-ways rapidly, moving her stern, which struck first, to [illegible] depth in the water. This was [illegible] by the strong current of the river, to which, as well as to the [illegible] weight, she was caused to heel over on the side that struck [illegible] first. The list [illegible] from the wreck of the disaster almost [illegible] have been identified.

LATER AND MORE EXACT STILL.

A dispatch from Glasgow says that the Victoria is thought by a [illegible] men of [illegible] and [illegible] number. It appears the men who were at work below when the ship went over rushed from their work and to [illegible] to the gangways. Some of the bodies still [illegible] the hull of the vessel. The dead bodies have all been identified. Many [illegible] at least a score persons or [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

ARCHBISHOP PURCELL.

Probable Death of the Aged and Widely-Known Catholic Dignitary.

Sketch of a Long Life Devoted to the Interests of the Roman Church.

The Steps Leading Up to Epochal Pronouncement—Late Years.

The archbishop of Cincinnati Probably Dead.

CINCINNATI, O., July 4.—[Special.]—The latest news from Archbishop Purcell indicated that the hours of the world he outgrowed would be hours, if not by moments, and it is quite probable that ere this hour (12 m.) he has breathed his last.

CINCINNATI, O., July 4.—1 a. m.—It is reported from Bowler County outside that the Most Rev. Archbishop Purcell is dead.

A Sketch of a Long and Eventful Life.

The Most Rev. John B. Purcell, Archbishop of Cincinnati, was born in Ballyshannon, County Donegal, Ireland, the birthplace also of Thomas Francis Meagher, on the 26th of February, 1800. His parents were of the middle farming class, and gave such opportunities as their means and the educational facilities of the country, which were none of the best, afforded. Young Purcell early manifested a devotional spirit, and his parents determined if possible that he should enter the ministry of the Catholic Church. He was sent to Maynooth College, the best seminary then, and now, existing for training priests for ministerial work, and after having finished the course of study there, he was ordained a priest. He then came to America, and was stationed at Somerset, Ohio. There he remained about one year, and was afterward transferred to Dayton, where he remained for a number of years, and was then appointed president of St. Joseph's College, Somerset, Perry County, Ohio. He was afterward transferred to Cincinnati, and was appointed vicar-general of the diocese, which then comprised the whole State of Ohio. He was subsequently appointed bishop of the diocese, and was consecrated in the Cathedral of St. Peter in Chains, Cincinnati, by Archbishop Eccleston, of Baltimore, assisted by Bishops Fenwick, of Boston, and Rosati, of St. Louis. He was then about thirty-three years of age. He was afterward transferred to the archbishopric of Cincinnati, and was invested with the pallium by Pope Pius IX. in June, 1850. He was present at the Council of Baltimore, in 1852, and was also present at the Council of the Vatican, in 1869-70. He was also present at the Provincial Council of Baltimore, in 1855, and was one of the most prominent members of the council. He was also present at the Council of Baltimore, in 1866, and was one of the most prominent members of the council. He was also present at the Council of Baltimore, in 1869, and was one of the most prominent members of the council. He was also present at the Council of Baltimore, in 1872, and was one of the most prominent members of the council. He was also present at the Council of Baltimore, in

Mr. Henry Eckert, whose house is at No. 48 West Lake street, started for his home, in the A. Miller establishment, about noon yesterday, and has not been heard from since. Any information of his whereabouts will be thankfully received by his friends at the Chicago office of Adam Eckert & Co.

Paul Gayet, a stockholder, was fined $100 yesterday by Justice Summers, and sent to the calaboose. Paul was drunk, he plead guilty, and after he was sent up he sent for a lawyer, and had the fine remitted. Justice Summers seems to be a little too severe on drunkards, and Paul's friends think that he has been punished enough for his offense.

Peter Peterson, a carpenter, whose home is at Des Moines, and employed at the Tremont House, was arrested yesterday on the charge of stealing a pocket-book containing $40, from the room of Mr. Robert A. Chatfield, the latter occupying the room next to Peterson. Mr. Chatfield, on his return to his room at 10 o'clock, missed the pocket-book, and on searching the room of Peterson found it in his trunk. Peterson was locked up to await examination.

A statement was printed in the Evening Journal yesterday, to the effect that Mr. Robert A. Chatfield, who was arrested on the charge of stealing a pocket-book containing $40, from the room of Mr. Peterson, in the Tremont House, was a relative of the proprietors of the Tremont House. This statement is false. Mr. Chatfield is not related to the proprietors of the Tremont House, nor to any of the employés of the house.

The annual entertainment of the Fire Department Library was held at Bryan Hall last evening. The hall was filled with a fashionable audience, who enjoyed a very pleasant entertainment. REISSUED PATENTS.

Emphatic Declarations of the United States Supreme Court.

The Practice of "Broadening" Patents Through a Reissue Condemned.

Powers Given by the Law "Misdirected and Abused."

A Rebuke to "Expert" for Claims of a Tendency to Illegal.

"Expired" Patents an Injustice to Inventors and Manufacturers Generally.

The Supreme Court of the United States, at the October term of 1899, decided the patent suit of Edward Miller & Co. against the Bridgeport Brass Company, to restrain the infringement of a patent. The patent was for an alleged improvement in lamps, and was originally granted Oct. 31, 1865, for fourteen years, and was extended for seven years longer. It was duly issued and assigned and reissued, each in different ways, in 1870. The court below dismissed the bill on the ground that the second reissue, on which the suit was brought, was void for the broadening claimed in the original patent, in that even the upper wheel screws. The original patent described a combination of devices, and covered a failure. It was afterwards found that the use of some of the devices, with the omission of the others, claimed in the original patent, would be an improvement. Fifteen years after the original patent was granted the patentee claimed that the improvement being now useful a part of the original invention, and that through inadvertence he omitted to claim it. The question, therefore, was there was an oversight which had occurred the notice of the patentee for fifteen years to suggest as the basis for broader claims.

The court then went, speaking of the principal subject of the law relating to reissues, as follows:
